

Take me home
jetstar
DECEMBER 2016 MAGAZINE

WHERE TO GO IN 2017

THE TRAVEL hot LIST

It's time to get packing: follow in the steps of the jet-set and let them inspire your travel plans for the year ahead

Bangkok THAILAND

ALANA MORGAN

Director at Morgan Media and blogger at Paper Planes; morganmedia.buzz; paperplanesblog.com of food stalls along with bars, live music and shopping.

A place in the city visitors might not be aware of that I love going to is...

Baan Silapin, the 'Artist's House' in the Phasi Charoen District. It's a restored, traditional wooden house by a canal that shows what old Bangkok was like. There are free puppet shows and other traditional arts and performances here, too.

If you're only there for a day, one must-do is to... schedule a walking or tuk tuk tour to see some of the sights and taste some street eats. The tours from Expique are excellent and pack a ton into one experience.

The best place for a drink or meal with a view is... anything along the Chao Phraya River, or one of the city's rooftop bars. Red Sky in Centara Grand at CentralWorld is impressive and I also love Scarlett Wine Bar at the Pullman Bangkok Hotel G. It's more intimate than many other rooftop bars and oozes style.

The most scenic spot in the city is... the Rattanakosin district surrounding the Grand Palace. »